Most of us are accustomed to the advanced technology devices that surround us on a daily basis. Some of them are used as a means of entertainment, while others are used for business. Whatever the case may be, the latest smartphone and tablet technology has made the process of doing simple things a bit more difficult. Although technology is making the lives of people easier, and improving their efficiency, it is also make the process of doing simple things. The most basic task that we have to accomplish in our lives is to go to the bathroom. The fact that the toilet is now connected to a network of sorts is not new. It is mostly due to the fact that most new toilets are Internet connected. This is done to make the process of using the toilet a more comfortable process, although not all toilets allow for this convenience. The fact that the toilet is connected to the Internet makes it possible to track the usage of the toilet. The fact that the toilet is connected to the Internet movements if they forget to flush. The company that owns the toilet can then save money in plumbing bills. The individual can see if their habits are becoming
