Lamborghini's new Huracá concept car is a full-on weapon of lust. Just take a look at its menacing presence from any angle. The iconic shield takes center stage, with the emotion-driven design being the greatest trait to those intrigued by the supercar. What's interesting about the Huracá is its hybrid design, which combines style and technology in one vehicle. Lamborghini brings the concept to more than just impress by highlighting it through its daring appearance, but the automaker also has a lot to offer in practical aspects like the exterior and interior. Lamborghini's engineers had a lot of fun before coming up with the Huracá concept, as can be seen from its cool and futuristic appearance. However, it has the goal of making its design even better in the future through construction. Related: Huracan LP610-4 Complete Design & Performance Car Review For now, the Huracá is still just a concept, but that should be enough for the Lamborghini enthusiast that wants to see and experience the supercar's unique style. Fans need to wait until the end of the year before it becomes a real car, and it's the fact that is making it a topic of discussion among enthusiasts. You can expect to see the Huracá concept car showcased at a certain point during the upcoming Lamborghini 50th anniversary celebration. Once again, the brand is planning to show how important each and every one of its vehicles are in its celebration. The Huracá is no exception, as we already know that
